Annual Conference on Maternity and Child Welfare

THIS Conference was held this year in June at the St. Pancras Town Hall. A résumé of the proceedings can be read in the July number of Mother and Child, where it is recorded that the Minister of Health opened with an address in which he said that residential centres, where mothers of problem families could go for rest and recuperation, with or without their children, were admirable, and valuable knowledge of home craft could be instilled.

Dr. J. Mackintosh said that the important place and responsibilities of the father should be emphasized.

Mrs. J. Mann, M.P., stated that preparation for marriage was not best done by mothercraft or babycraft classes, but by way of education in literature, citizenship, psychology, European history, arithmetic, English (including Latin), and cooking. Babycraft, Mrs. Mann thought, could be learned by any intelligent woman in a month, and eugenists may be glad to hear that "Marriage itself should be made more difficult and should not mean a union of nitwits."

Phylon

THE Society is now receiving Phylon: Review of Race and Culture from the University of Atlanta, Georgia in exchange for the EUGENICS REVIEW. Though the majority of its articles are not of direct eugenic importance, it is hoped that Fellows and Members will find it of interest. In common with other periodicals, it may be borrowed from the Society's Library. Phylon is a well-produced quarterly journal, edited by Professor Mozell C. Hill whom we had the pleasure of seeing, with Mrs. Hill and two of his charming children, in England this year.
